Arts!Longview Hours and Ticket Prices

Many cities might hide their artistic side in a museum, but the creativity of Longview is simply too big to fit within four walls. It runneth over into an entire district of the town, known as—and with great emphasis—Arts!Longview. This district, recognized by the Texas Commission on the Arts, is where you'll find the city's best museums and theaters, as well as splashes of inspiration on every street corner. For as many works of art as you'll see framed or upon a stage, you'll find nearly as many on utility boxes, banners, and murals encompassing entire walls of buildings. It's an artistic collaboration between journey and destination.

The murals, the sculptures, and all 343 acres of the Arts!Longview are free and open at any hour, no ticket required. The museums and events within the district, however, have their own hours and prices, and are very much worth planning around if you can.
